"TIZ Reminds Me of My Barefoot Days!"

"My Feet Never Get Sore, Tired or Chafed Now, Because I Use TIZ."

"TIZ makes me feel like a boy again.
Nothing would hurt my feet in those days, even when I'd run around barefooted with Roses, over rocks and pebbles and sticks."

"What You
Think About
Grumps?"

"To be able now to have feet that never ache, never get tired, blistered, swollen or chafed, or have corns, callouses or bunions, is a glorious recompense for all the other aches and pains one suffers in the winter of life. TIZ makes the feet feel young, and young feet make you feel young all over."

"I've tried many things for my poor old tired feet, for those bunions of 20 years, and for those corns that have added wrinkles to my face. I've tried plasters, powders and salves—and nothing has ever given the relief that TIZ has. My feet are now strong and vigorous, they never get tired or swollen.
I have no corns, callouses or bunions any more—they are boy's feet on an old man!"

TIZ gives instant relief and cures all foot troubles. It operates on a new principle, draws out all the poisonous exudations that cause foot troubles.
Don't accept a substitute. An elderly man especially, has a mind of his own; see that you get TIZ.

TIZ, 25 cents a box, sold everywhere, or sent direct, on receipt of price, by Walker Lather, Dedic & Co., Chicago, Ill.
Recommended by all Drug Stores, department and general stores.

Mrs. A. R. Tabor, of Crider, Mo., had been troubled with sick headache for about five years, when she began taking Chamberlain's Tablets. She has taken two bottles of them and they have cured her. Sick headache is caused by a disordered stomach, for which these tablets are especially intended.
Try them, get well and stay well. Sold by all dealers.

CANAL WILL BRING CLOSER RELATIONS

Between the United States and All Latin-America Says Knox.

PANAMA, Feb. 29.—Secretary of State P. C. Knox, who has just arrived on the Isthmus, made in Panama the first of his public addresses on the trip that will take him, before his return to Washington, to all capitals of Central America, and to Northern South America and the West Indies.

This speech, while delivered before the president of Panama, Senor Pablo Arosemena, was in reality addressed to all the countries the Secretary expects to visit, and included an explanation of the attitude of the United States towards South and Central America, particularly in connection with the building of the Panama canal. Mr. Knox said that the president of the United States believed that the completion of the canal should mark the beginning of closer relations between the United States and all Latin-America; that the purpose of the United States toward all the American republics was to live in amity and essential harmony; and that the United States desired more peace, more prosperity, more happiness and more security in their national lives.
He declared the United States craved neither sovereignty nor territory in Latin-America, and that there was much in common between the older and the younger republics.

Mr. Knox's address follows:

"It is an honor and a sincere pleasure, Mr. President, to be your guest and the recipient of the cordial welcome of Panama. It is a privilege to stand upon the threshold of the consummation of the greatest work done by man in or for the world and to feel that one is not a stranger upon the soil dedicated from the creation to be the scene of the supreme effort for human advancement when man's requirements demanded it and man's genius should be equal to the task.

"When the necessities of the world's first civilization could be no longer supplied and its aspirations no longer satisfied in its oriental abode it was natural that the pioneers of those days should make their first explorations by following the path of the life-giving sun in its daily journeys towards the West.

"The fruits of their first timid ventures emboldened them to more ambitious endeavor and the ever increasing rewards, resulting from the discovery of continents and seas, beckoned them on until halted here by another world they seemed to have fulfilled their mission of companion discoverers with the sun which passed on in solitude towards and into the unknown.

"It was not until 1513 when Balboa stood 'silent upon a peak in Darlen' and gazed upon the waters of the Pacific that it was evident that the hand that gave the seas and formed the land left it possible to divide the hemisphere which halted western progress, even as Moses had divided the Red Sea that the children of Israel might pass, and though the hands of early navigators were unskilled for the gigantic task, their imaginations grasped the possibility of its successful realization.

"A commonwealth founded on freedom of conscience and security

"The history of the project to build the Isthmian canal is full of strange national and personal disappointments. Perhaps the best tragic of them all is, that, coincident with Spain's loss of the last vestige of her sovereignty in the new world, the final act of the realization of the dreams of her great navigators began.

"After many vicissitudes and failures—the completion of the stupendous work devolved upon the people of the United States who are thus thrown into relations with the countries of the Isthmian region which, with our geographical propin-quity, make a broader understanding and a more sympathetic reciprocal interest between us an essential basis for the realization of the splendid possibilities which seems to have been decreed from the beginning of time.

"The president of the United States believes that the early completion of the Panama canal should mark the beginning of closer relations to all Latin America and especially to the Caribbean littoral, as well as the relations of these countries to each other, and, impelled by the thought that this is an auspicious moment through better acquaintance to lay the foundations upon which there should rest a broader confidence, a closer sympathy and more practical reciprocal helpfulness, has sent me hither as a bearer of a message of good will to our sister American republics.

It is the president's desire that I might personally meet your most hospitable people, might see for myself your beautiful countries with their boundless resources and economic possibilities, to the end that such direct personal knowledge, understanding and appreciation might result in mutual advantage and in co-operation for the development of all our countries. Responding to the hospitality of the country which has first so generously received me and with which the relations of my country are so cordially intimate, I take this opportunity of assuring all the American republics that the purpose of the United States towards them is that we should live in amity and essential harmony and that we desire only that more peace, more prosperity, more happiness and more security should come into and become a part of their individual and national lives.

"While it is entirely clear to those who have fairly and intelligently considered the history of the relations of the United States to the other American republics that our policies have been without a trace of sinister motive or design, craving neither sovereignty nor territory, yet it is true that our motives towards you have not always been fortunately interpreted either at home or faithfully represented by some of our nationals who have resided in your midst.

"While we have much to learn of each other and are all to be vastly profited by clear and more sympathetic ties, yet between the elder and the younger republics there is much in common.

of individual rights is not an exclusive heritage of Saxon America but one shared by all the peoples of the hemisphere who, like ourselves, have passed through the sore trials that attended the founding of two communities in a new land. However diverse our physical environments, however great the contrast between the national obstacles to be surmounted, whether amid the snows and pine forests of the North or in the Sierras of the Equator and the pampas of the South, the aim of our respective enterprises, expressed in the undying words of Lincoln, has been the same, to bring forth on this continent new nations conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

"Much has been said about the effect of the opening of the Panama canal, but I believe it is given to few of us to realize what magic possibilities are potential in that event.
As I conceive it, it will create for our Western world an entirely new situation, a situation fraught with possibilities so vast that dare the fancy of the mind. In this new world we must be found, drawn closer by sympathies and mutual esteem, and working in harmony towards beneficent ends. This must be so for our greatest interests are those that are common to us all. We who live on the Western Hemisphere find ourselves by force of geography in circumstances which make our situation peculiar and thus fundamental fact gives us privileges and imposes upon us duties and obligations we would not otherwise have. It was a perception of this, which your own thinkers and statesmen have seen as clearly as our own, which prompted the announcement by President
